

I think it is totally ridiculous to even think of banning XM-Radio from broadcasting local traffic and weather reports. Why would the US government want to make the highways more hazardous than they are? I am a long distance truck driver, and do not know of any local radio station that broadcast 24 hour traffic and weather reports. Even if they did, you couldn't receive them soon enough to route yourself around bottle-necks or weather situations. We pay for this service and are entitled to it. It is a safety issue, and I cannot believe our government would contribute to making the highways less safe than they are!
